STAT

Dear

At the end of last week I took my bride away from home, fireside and offspring for a few days' sailing on the Chesapeake Bay. While we greatly enjoyed the break, I am very sorry that its timing made it impossible for me to attend your awards ceremony. I was delighted to learn that you were receiving the Intelligence Medal of Merit and can think of no officer more deserving of this recognition. Your services to the Agency and the government are both legion and legendary. This type of recognition in my opinion is long overdue. Ruth joins me in our heartiest congratulations and our best wishes for every success in any endeavors you and  decide to undertake.
